does this pretty much on his own initiative with the exception of help of an employee bulletin and some transportation provided by the Office of Logistics. The information provided indicates this is a worthwhile project and, indeed, provides some element of cheer to the less fortunate. It is worth noting that, for the most part, this year's collection of food, clothing and stuffed animals exceed that of the previous year. Of interest is the fact that this is the second year that the Agency has gone "overt," with the Agency admitted as sponsor.
